

Pioneer Slogan ~

"A New School Everyday for Twenty Years (1900-1920)."

Saskatchewan One Room School Project provides an online history for current generations to enjoy, preserve, and experience our historical educational, architectural, and cultural, heritage. The one room school house of the late 1800s of the NWT and early 1900s provided education to a burgeoning population. This project honors the communities, teachers and students of that era.

The objective of the Saskatchewan One Room School Project is an online project for those interested with the digital preservation of Saskatchewan country schools, recording the location of one room schools, celebrating the legacy of schoolhouses remaining, restored or commemorated by plaque or picture, the history of the people and places involved, teacher and pupil letters, report cards, a digital image gallery captures records, school photographs, biographies, memories, class photos and recollections from those who taught and attended Saskatchewan One Room School houses.

Where are these schools today? Do any remain? The School Districts Listing contains the names, legal land description and dates of establishment of over 5,000 schools. How did schools obtain teachers? Saskatchewan Normal Schools and Union Schools were the precursors of University courses providing teacher training when there was a drastic shortage of teachers in Saskatchewan. Check out the yearbooks.

How did the one room school house education system evolve into the school system in use today? Book transcriptions of pioneer school planning are complemented with a timeline; the Evolution of Education in Saskatchewan. Reminiscences are included and the guestbook provides an online centre to reach out to the one room school community. The One Room Schoolhouse is an endangered species today. What has been the role of the One Room School House District to your family, in the community and for the province of Saskatchewan? All of us have the ability to respond in preserving memories of this important and vanishing part of our history!

The SaskatchewanGenWeb project, Discover your Saskatchewan Family History, is hosted by researchers who either live in their own region or who are familiar with the local resources becoming an online resource for international genealogists. A GenWeb site is generally used as a learning tool or stepping stone for researchers hoping to learn more about their geographical area of research, coordinators create web pages which collect and distribute genealogical data on the web which answer questions or point researchers in the direction they need.

The provincial website is the gateway linking to the local regional GenWeb areas therefore you can get closer to your place of interest and connect with area residents and fellow researchers.
